

The Salem-South Lyon District Library policy regarding the use of cellular telephones follows the guidelines in Policy 410.0.

The user's expectation is that the Library is an environment conducive to reading, study, research, consultation, and quiet collaboration.

We ask our patrons to abide by the following:

- Please respect others by keeping conversations at low levels.
- Talking on cell phones in the computer lab is prohibited and all electronic devices should be set to vibrate.

Should a patron continue to disregard this policy, they may be asked to take their call to the front foyer until their call is finished.
